ANNOUNCEMENTS

BREED THEATRE.

Belle Burke in Eve's Daughter, Which Was Originally Produced Starring Grace George, Feature Today and Tuesday.

Winema Billie Burke is to appear at the Breed theatre today and Tuesday in her latest dramatic picture, "Eve's Daughter." This is an adaptation by Margaret Turnbull of Alice Ramsey's play of that name, which was produced on Broadway this year with Grace George as the star. The excellent cast includes Thomas Meighan, who it will be remembered, appeared with Billie Burke in "The Land of Nod," and William Riley Hatch, Florence Flynn, Lancelotti, Mary Navaro and others.

The story deals with the sudden emancipation of a girl from the restraints of a strict father and the rather disastrous results which follow, with a happy ending, however.

The third episode of "The Eagle's Eye" will also be shown. This chapter entitled "The Not a Minute to Spare" shows the German plot to torpedo the flagship and cripple the fleet. It will be remembered that the Atlantic fleet was reviewed in New York harbor by the president early in 1915, in connection with the plot against this fleet at that time.

Bridgeport, and will enter upon his duties May 1.

West Hartford.—Miss Miriam Wadsworth is to be the valedictorian of the West Hartford High school, and Miss Ruth Johnson salutatorian. It was announced last week. The next highest rank pupils are Miss Margaret Heider and Miss Eleanor Wilkowsky.

Danbury.—Miss Elizabeth Hanly, a graduate of the University of Maine, has become a member of the State Normal school faculty, succeeding Stephen Clement, who resigned to enter the navy. Miss Hanly will teach English literature and public speaking.

Hartford.—Miss Olga Margaret Pratt of this city, Vassar 1915, is among the "farmerettes" at Vassar college in the class now engaged in planting onions. The girls are dressed in bloomers, middie and heavy sweaters and are setting out acres of onions. The work will continue until the close of the Easter vacation.

Middletown.—Middletown opened its new Liberty loan cottage the other afternoon with a quiet dignity that bespoke the serious purpose of its people in the presence of former United States Senator Morgan G. Bulkeley, former Governor Frank B. Weeks, Mayor Arthur McDonald, a group of prominent citizens and a gathering of the common people. Gov. Marcus H. Holcomb uttered words which formally dedicated this attractive edifice to the uses of a nation at war.
